Happy New Year from the Mayor of Seika

せいちょうしんねん 精華町長の新年あいさつ

Having been entrusted with a third term as mayor, I greet the New Year determined to work with all my might this year as well.

Last year, with the Great East Japan Earthquake and the accidents at the Fukushima Daiichi Nuclear Reactor, the environment surrounding local governments was worse than ever before.

In the midst of the rapidly globalizing world, there is increasing unease about the economy, and with the high value of the Yen, means the economic situation of Japan is complete chaos.

The percentage of college students planning to graduate this spring who have found work is the second lowest ever, and so the elderly will continue having to support the young, in true reversal of roles.

Taking to heart the current situation, in this past election I declared that I wanted to improve the town by “connecting lives and dreams.”

This huge goal is not something that a single town can handle alone. However, creating a “town government that values life” is especially important in these tough times. For that purpose, it is imperative to support town planning that is safe and reassuring; where “self-help, cooperation, and reliance” each hold significance, support each other, where you can feel the dreams and light.

Amid the people’s growing concern for the future, the country has not shown a clear path, so many areas are being forced to become more independent, whether they want to or not. We want to make clear that we are set on using the Science City as a springboard for development.

Even though an increasing number of Japanese companies are moving their operations overseas, this spring two companies are planning to open offices in Seika. Furthermore, we are quite fortunate as a number of companies are also considering locating here. From here on out, we will continue working on invigorating the town through industrial development using the Science City.

Though we are in a tough economic situation, with the idea “Don’t waste even a single yen” we will not stop fighting for reform. In order to advance our plans for the safety and peace of mind of Seika’s 36,900 residents steadily, we ask for your understanding and cooperation. So, I pray for everyone’s health and good fortune, and wish you all a happy new year.

Kaname Kimura, Mayor of Seika.

Yojjukugo Corner よじじゆくごコーナ

Howdy everyone and welcome to the Yojjukugo Corner! Yojjukugo are Japanese idioms made up of four Kanji.

四字
熟語

This Month's Yojjukugo is~~~~

竜頭蛇尾

Ryuutou Dabi

"A strong beginning but a weak ending"

Sometimes different projects or ideas can start out great, but fizzle out in the end. I'm sure everyone has some experience with this, whether it was your own idea or someone else's. Ryuutou Dabi means something that, in the beginning is really good and interesting, but by the end becomes a let down. The four kanji literally mean "A dragon's head and a snake's tail."

Note From the Editor
へんしゅうしゃのことば

Every December, one Kanji is chosen to represent all the events of the past year. Previous entries have included 命 (life), 戦 (war), and 変 (change). For 2011, officials picked the kanji 絆, which means "bonds".

This kanji is meant to reflect how important it is for the people who live in Japan, including foreign residents, to work together, especially after a disaster like the one in March.

The March disaster was truly terrible, but it is important to remember what can be gained from it, a sense of connection with all the other residents of Japan.

Festivals and National Holidays さいじつ・ぎょうじ

Coming-of-Age Day

成人の日

January 9th

In Japan, when people turn 20 years old, they are officially adults. To celebrate this is Coming-of-Age Day for those who have turned twenty that year. Each city, town, and village holds a congratulatory ceremony for those who come of age during that year, with speeches from officials and many parties afterwards. Young women participating in the event will often dress in very elaborate Kimono, which take hours to put on. Seika will hold its Coming-of-Age Ceremony this year at the Keihanna Plaza Main Hall.

Igomori Festival

いごもり祭

January 12th 13th 14th

According to legend, the Igomori Festival was first held around the year 770 to ward off an evil spirit bringing famine and plague upon the people living in the area. The festival, designated an "Intangible Cultural Property," begins when a huge torch is set aflame after dark at Hosono Shrine. Six or seven men then parade the flaming torch, which weighs more than 75 kilos, around the streets of Seika. Many food stalls are set up around the shrine to add to the festive atmosphere. Residents from the area also have a tug-of-war, with the winning team being assured of a good harvest that year.

Directions:

From Kintetsu Shin-Hosono/JR Hosono Station go out the east exit, head straight down the street (east) and then turn left (north) at the end of the road. Turn right again (east) at the first stoplight, and follow the road as it winds northeast towards the Kizu River. Hosono Shrine will be at the end of the road. It is about a 20-min walk.

Setsubun

節分

February 3rd

Though the term Setsubun technically refers to the day before the beginning of each new season, it has come to be most closely associated with the beginning of spring. The holiday has become famous for the practice of mamemaki, or bean throwing. Families throw roasted soybeans at someone dressed as an oni (demon), while shouting "Oni wa soto! Fuku wa uchi!" meaning, "Demons out! Luck in!" Family members then eat the number of beans corresponding to their age. Though traditionally it was only the head of the household who threw the beans, the practice has become very popular with children, and nowadays one family member wears an oni mask and the rest of the family throws the beans. If you would like to participate in Setsubun, the Keihanna Plaza is holding an event on January 30th. Please see page 5 for more details.
