Kuririn Bus Adventure

The Seika Kuririn Bus, with two routes through town, one in the north and one in the south, has 41 stops. In this series, points of interest near each stop will be introduced so that you can get to know the Seika Kuririn Bus a bit better. Try hopping off and going for a walk at a stop that you normally would not go to!

AROUND 1 - Housono Icchouda

Before arriving at "Housono Icchouda", the bus turns right at an intersection before crossing the JR railroad tracks. At this intersection there is a stoplight called a "Railroad Crossing Linked Stoplight". This kind of stoplight is made specifically for intersections that are connected to a railroad crossing. When the Railroad Crossing Signal activates, that information is sent to the stop light which changes red as well.

It is only a 40 second walk from the bus stop. If it is when a train is passing, you might even be able to see it from the bus!

HEADLINE :

- Disabled Persons Craft Market on the 9th of April
- International Understanding Festival on the 19 of April

IN REMEMBRANCE OF DR. YOSHIKAZU SASAKI

This March, we parted ways with a very special person. Dr. Sasaki, who was an integral part in establishing the relationship with our sister city, Norman, OK passed away. A graduate of Tokyo University, Dr. Sasaki moved to Norman, OK in 1960 to help found the University of Oklahoma School of Meteorology, now one of the top schools in the United States.

Upon establishing himself in Norman, Dr. Sasaki used his connections in Japan to create exchange opportunities between the two, bringing several businesses from Japan to Oklahoma and paving the way for further exchange, which resulted in Norman and Seika becoming sister cities in 2005.

As someone who continued to act as an ambassador between our two towns even longer after the Sister City Agreement had been signed, Dr. Sasaki is deeply respected and loved both here and in Norman, and he will be missed.

INTERVIEW: MR. WAKITA, SEIKA GLOBAL NETWORK PRESIDENT

Jake: Hello Mr. Wakita. Thank you for agreeing to this interview. Since this is the first version of the newly revised Ichigo, I could not think of a better person to be our first interviewee than the President of Seika's international association, Seika Global Network. Can you start off by telling us a bit about what SGN does?

Mr. Wakita: Hi Jake. Thanks for having me. Seika Global Network's main role in the community is to facilitate exchange and multiculturalism in the Kansai Science City, assist foreign residents living in Seika by providing services like Japanese classes and lifestyle advice, and in the event of emergencies to act as a support center for foreign residents.

Jake: That's a pretty broad range of activities. Have you seen any changes in Seika related to SGN?

Mr. Wakita: Certainly. I have seen an increase in people seeing their own culture from a new perspective and recognizing each other for their thoughts and personalities regardless of their nationality.

Jake: What is your favorite part of being President of SGN?

Mr. Wakita: Personally, I am always happy to eat delicious food together with our foreign residents, but I also believe that our grassroots efforts to increase international exchange are making the world a more peaceful place to live.

Jake: I believe that is true as well. By the way, your English is really good. Where did you learn it?

Mr. Wakita: In college I studied English at Kyoto University of Education for 18 seminars with Dr. Payne, with a large emphasis on pronunciation, along with some individual lessons as well. After that I studied phonetics, at which point I gained some confidence in my speaking ability.

Jake: That is quite an impressive background. Now Mr. Wakita, in closing, is there any advice that you can give to foreign residents in Seika?

Mr. Wakita: Of course. First I would like to say that Seika is in an excellent location, close to Kyoto, Nara and Osaka as well as being the center of the science city. It is also home to an extensive culture and history with many temples and shrines. Please stroll around frequently. The second is that the members of the English Guide Course would be happy to give you a tour of Seika anytime!

Jake: Thank you for your time Mr. Wakita.

Seika Global Network does lots of activities so make sure to check them out!

LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

A famous potter named Kawai Kanjirou, in the past used to walk around Seika looking at the vibrant greenery and old houses, enjoying the scenery. Seika is a very beautiful town, isn't it? Now that it is spring, many types of flowers are blooming and that beauty seems to be magnified. This month, please go outside and take a walk in Seika, a town full of nature.
