Bringing the Convenience Store Certificate Issuing Service Closer

Because the certificate delivery machine has become outdated, there will be a new machine installed on the second floor of Seika Town Hall on April 3 (Monday). This new machine will be compatible with the convenience store issuing service. Once installed, you can print residency certificates, stamp registration certificates, and family registry certificates. Machines that can issue these certificates are installed at Seven Eleven, Lawson, Circle K, Family Mart and other convenience stores around the country.

As such, one of the two certificate delivery machines will be removed from Seika Town Hall on March 31, and a new multi-purpose machine that can also support requests for My Number Cards will be installed. Given this, we will stop issuing Seika Resident Cards on March 31. For those who would like to use their Seika Resident Card when using these automatic card-issuing machines, please apply for the much more convenient My Number Card that can also be used at convenience store terminals.

Headline:
