General Information

くらしのじょうほう

Protecting Victims of Abuse

まも あんしん ひがいしや じょうほう
守られ安心。被害者の情報

Victims of such offenses as domestic violence, stalking, and child abuse will be eligible to apply for special protection from the government. This protection will prevent the stalker or abuser from searching for the victim's address by receiving a copy of the victim's Residency Certificate.

An application is necessary to receive this protection. Protection lasts for one year and may be extended. Eligibility is restricted to those enrolled in Seika's Basic Resident Register or included in a family registry label.

To apply, please submit an application form to the Seika Town Office's General Services Division, located on the second floor, upon consultation with law enforcement. Application forms are available from the General Services Division and Kizu Police Station, and may also be downloaded from the Seika Town Homepage. When applying, please bring government-issued photo identification such as driver's license or passport.

After receiving the application, the General Services Division will contact law enforcement or other concerned parties in order to confirm. If the applicant is determined to require special protection, the stalker or abuser will be unable to receive the victim's Residency Certificate copy, family registry label copy, or partial Basic Resident Register copy.

In the case of a third party applying to receive the victim's documents, the town office will ask for identification and then make a judgment. Furthermore, in order to prevent identity fraud, the victim will not be able to receive documents through a representative or by mail.

Note from the Editor

へんしゅうしゃのことば

At long last, the summer has come to an end. Even October was muggy! Where I come from, the beginning of October is warm sometimes, but it is never hot. Winter will be here before too long, so ideally I'd like to enjoy autumn as much as possible.

November is, in my opinion, an especially good time to be living in Seika. Lots of tourists flock to famous parts of Kyōto to see autumn leaves, and it gets very crowded. However, there are beautiful mountains that can be seen from right here in Seika, so we don't necessarily have to join the crowds in order to get a dose of autumnal beauty.

Festivals and National Holidays さいじつ・きょうじ

Shichi-Go-San

しちごさん
七五三

Shichi-Go-San is a traditional coming-of-age festival for 7-year-old girls, 5-year-old boys, and 3-year-olds of both genders. It originated during the Heian Period (AD 794 to 1185) as a ritual for court nobles and had been adopted for commoners by the Meiji Period (1868 to 1912). To celebrate this festival, many children go with their parents to a shrine or temple to pray for health and longevity. Many of these children wear hakama (for boys) or kimonos (for girls) for the first time in their lives. They also receive chitose ame (literally “thousand-year candy”), a long red-and-white candy that symbolizes healthy growth and longevity.

Labor Thanksgiving Day

きんろうかんしゃ ひ
勤労感謝の日November 23rd

Labor Thanksgiving Day is a time to express gratitude for the labor that fuels industry and daily life. The holiday is held on the same day as an ancient Japanese holiday, Niiname-sai, on which the Emperor would taste the first rice of the year and thank the spirits. Currently, Niiname-sai is observed privately by the Imperial Family, while Labor Thanksgiving Day has become a national holiday.

Momijigari

もみじが
紅葉狩り

Momijigari, or autumn leaf viewing, is an extremely popular activity in Japan. The city of Kyōto is particularly famous for its beautiful fall colors and the views from its mountains, temples, shrines, and gardens. Some of the best places to view the vibrant yellow, orange, and red leaves include: Tōfuku-ji Temple, Kiyomizu-dera Temple, and Eikan-dō Temple in eastern Kyōto; Nison-in Temple and Arashiyama in western Kyōto; and Kurama in northern Kyōto. The end of November is generally considered to be prime momijigari season, although as with sakura (cherry blossoms) in the spring, much depends on weather and location. As weekends tend to be crowded, momijigari is best kept to weekdays, if possible. A quiet weekday visit to see the fall colors is highly recommended.
